Even if you are an opponent of bullfighting in Spain, or another continent altogether, it's hard to argue with the wonder this country has to offer. Every town and countryside has its own little piece of magic to offer, from the rich culture of the Basque region to the calm, rugged coastline of Mallorca, there's something for everyone. It can feel like a mad rush to take in everything in the region you're in, but Portugal has one of the most stunningly beautiful and unspoilt landscapes in all Europe, if not the world. There are beautiful towns and cities to travel through as you move around the country, and some of them are a labyrinth of sights to see, while others are quite small and can easily be overlooked. But don't let this stop you from marveling in the beauty Portugal has to offer. Here are a few of our favourite places you need to see. 1. The Portuguese Riviera Portugal boasts a coastline of beautiful, unspoiled beaches like none other. The capital, Lisbon, is a cultural hub and the epicenter of the Northern Portuguese Lusophone community. The city is one of the most globally famous locations due to its beautiful and popular beaches, the 'Be 6d1f23a050
